PRESS RELEASE

From the collaboration between Simone Piva and Elisa Ossino is born Tourner la carte, a monoblock kitchen that transforms itself with exceptional dynamism of shapes and functions in a complete washing and cooking system.

The extremely innovative design aspect is the possibility to move and hide the induction cooktops and the sinks, switching from a freely positioned cooking areas to situations where the washing areas are placed following one's own desires.

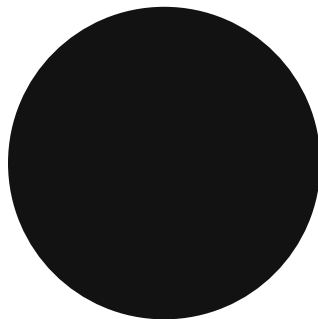

The working area is so versatile that the cooktop can be pulled out and used outside the block. This incredible eclecticism, resulting from the research conducted by Simone Piva about appliances and high-level custom furniture, combines with Elisa Ossino's work, focused on translating this strong dynamism in lines and other geometric elements.

The three dimensions of the monoblock lead to a variety of graphical symbols printed on wood, designed to emphasize the shifting nature of this sculptural volume, that hides its functions letting glimpse only a system of changeable signs.
